FAQ (short)

Fast answers. For full detail, see the site and methodology overview (v1.0.9).

Is this a day-trading tool?

No. It is designed for weekly, cycle-level context. It is not built for intraday timing.

Does it guarantee tops or bottoms?

No. Markets can change, regimes can shift, and any model can fail. Treat labels and alerts as inputs and always use risk management.

Does it repaint?

Confirmations evaluate on the weekly close. Some staging cues can change during the week before the bar closes.

Do I need a paid TradingView plan?

Basic alerts may work on lower tiers. Webhook alerts require a compatible TradingView plan. Alert capabilities depend on TradingView.

How do I get access after purchase?

Purchase on Gumroad, then email support with your TradingView username and your Gumroad receipt/email. We add invite-only access after verification (typically within 24 business hours).

> Always validate any alert against your plan. The tool is not investment advice and does not replace decision-making.
