Since the age of 21 ive been locked up for the better part of 3 years. Now at the age of 25 ive become a product of the enviroment ive reluctantley had to sit in. There hasn't ever been any educational classes offered to us at any of the county jails ive ever been to. while on my retained juristiction i was able to obtain my ged, but wasn't able to do anything further. I keep repeatedly coming back due to my own Failures at progressing forward in life, due to my lack of skills. Most people my age ~~had~~ have had multiple opportunities to try different things and therefore aquire different skill sets that open doors for them to find a career path. Without having those opportunities i tend to fall back on what i know and whats easy. I feel that with opportunities that could be allowed in the system that i would be able to progress and grow my skillset giving me a better opportunity to succed upon my release.
