

Privacy policy

Version-neutral policy surface for customer materials.

What we collect

AZRO may collect contact details, support messages, product access information, payment-platform records, and basic operational information needed to deliver support and manage access.

How we use it

Information is used to provide product access, support, customer communication, operational recordkeeping, and security. AZRO does not need your exchange credentials, private keys, seed phrases, or custody credentials.

Data boundaries

Do not send private keys, seed phrases, exchange passwords, account credentials, or sensitive custody information. If you need support, provide only the minimum information needed to explain the issue.
